more use in keeping out moths than any other tight box. Gum camphor is sometimes put among woollen garments, and tobacco is also used; but though these may have some effect in keeping the miller away, they are not always safeguards, and the surest way is the sim-plest, that of wrapping the garments so that nothing can gain an entrance. To keep them out of carpets, sprinkle the floor with turpentine or benzine before laying the carpet, and with a small, flat paint brush apply freely under the surbase and in all cracks. Benzine poured over furniture and carpets where moths are will kill them. Great care should be taken not to use the benzine near a flame of any kind, and there should flame or fire in the room until the fumes have passed away. Squash.

Vary the usual preparation of squase by adding to the mashed squash an egg well beaten and a cupful of milk, stirring together. This is a good way to warm up the squash from yesterday's dinner. It is a very easy matter to make this mixture into a squash omelet and that is worth trying. If there is a cup-ful of squash, allow a scant cupful of milk and two eggs. Turn into a well-buttered pan. The mixture will heat in three minutes, then fold and serve at
